Citation: 2008 TCC 562

Dockets: 2007-4193(EI);

2007-4196(CPP)

BETWEEN:

10TATION EVENT CATERING INC.,

Appellant,

and

THE MINISTER OF NATIONAL REVENUE,

Respondent.

CERTIFICATION OF TRANSCRIPT OF REASONS FOR JUDGMENT

Let the attached certified transcript of my Reasons for Judgment delivered orally from the Bench at Toronto, Ontario, on August 28, 2008, be filed.

Signed at Toronto, Ontario, this 22nd day of October, 2008.

TAX COURT OF CANADA

BETWEEN:

10TATION EVENT CATERING INC.

Appellant

- and -

THE MINISTER OF NATIONAL REVENUE

Respondent

TRANSCRIPT OF DECISION RENDERED BY THE HONOURABLE MR. JUSTICE WEISMAN

at Courts Administration Service, Room 6C, 180 Queen Street West, Toronto, Ontario on Thursday, August 28, 2008

APPEARANCES

Mr. Howard J. Alpert for the Appellant

Mr. Justin Kutyan for the Respondent

Also Present:

Mr. William O'Brien Registrar
Ms Shirley Sereney Court Reporter

A.S.A.P. Reporting Services Inc. 8 2008

200 Elgin Street, Suite 1105 Ottawa, Ontario K2P 1L5 (613) 564-2727 130 King Street W., Suite 1800 Toronto, Ontario M5X 1E3 (416) 861-8720

Toronto, Ontario The Minister May Sugust 28, 2008 The Minister Mere Involved in the food To service and Supervisors. The Minister has decided that they Were employed under contracts of service and has assessed 10Tation for arrears of contributions under the Canada Pension Plan and premiums under the Employment Insurance Act. Toration and all 91 workers now appeal these assessments on the grounds that they were independent contractors under contracts for services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that their evidence was equally applicable to all 91
JUSTICE WEISMAN: These appeals concern 91 workers who were involved in the food catering business in 2005. They were then engaged by 10Tation Event Catering Inc. as servers, bartenders, chefs, executive chefs and supervisors. The Minister has decided that they were employed under contracts of service and has assessed 10Tation for arrears of contributions under the Canada Pension Plan and premiums under the Employment Insurance Act. 10Tation and all 91 workers now appeal these assessments on the grounds that they were independent contractors under contracts for services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	1	Toronto, Ontario
JUSTICE WEISMAN: These appeals concern 91 workers who were involved in the food catering business in 2005. They were then engaged by 10Tation Event Catering Inc. as servers, bartenders, chefs, executive chefs and supervisors. The Minister has decided that they were employed under contracts of service and has assessed 10Tation for arrears of contributions under the Canada Pension Plan and premiums under the Employment Insurance Act. 10Tation and all 91 workers now appeal these assessments on the grounds that they were independent contractors under contracts for services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	2	Upon commencing on Thursday, August 28, 2008
concern 91 workers who were involved in the food catering business in 2005. They were then engaged by 10Tation Event Catering Inc. as servers, bartenders, chefs, executive chefs and supervisors. The Minister has decided that they were employed under contracts of service and has assessed 10Tation for arrears of contributions under the Canada Pension Plan and premiums under the Employment Insurance Act. 10Tation and all 91 workers now appeal these assessments on the grounds that they were independent contractors under contracts for services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server: Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Tabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	3	at 2:00 p.m.
catering business in 2005. They were then engaged by 10Tation Event Catering Inc. as servers, bartenders, chefs, executive chefs and supervisors. The Minister has decided that they were employed under contracts of service and has assessed 10Tation for arrears of contributions under the Canada Pension Plan and premiums under the Employment Insurance Act. 10Tation and all 91 workers now appeal these assessments on the grounds that they were independent contractors under contracts for services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	4	JUSTICE WEISMAN: These appeals
7 10Tation Event Catering Inc. as servers, bartenders, 8 chefs, executive chefs and supervisors. 9 The Minister has decided that they 10 were employed under contracts of service and has 11 assessed 10Tation for arrears of contributions under 12 the Canada Pension Plan and premiums under the 13 Employment Insurance Act. 14 10Tation and all 91 workers now 15 appeal these assessments on the grounds that they 16 were independent contractors under contracts for 17 services and, therefore, were not in insurable or 18 pensionable employment during the year under review. 19 Four workers testified in these 20 proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or 21 server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic 22 supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and 23 Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	5	concern 91 workers who were involved in the food
The Minister has decided that they were employed under contracts of service and has assessed 10Tation for arrears of contributions under the Canada Pension Plan and premiums under the Employment Insurance Act. 10Tation and all 91 workers now appeal these assessments on the grounds that they were independent contractors under contracts for services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and safety and server. It was agreed that	6	catering business in 2005. They were then engaged by
The Minister has decided that they were employed under contracts of service and has assessed 10Tation for arrears of contributions under the Canada Pension Plan and premiums under the Employment Insurance Act. 10Tation and all 91 workers now appeal these assessments on the grounds that they were independent contractors under contracts for services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	7	10Tation Event Catering Inc. as servers, bartenders, were employed under contracts of service and has assessed 10Tation for arrears of contributions under the Canada Pension Plan and premiums under the Employment Insurance Act. 10Tation and all 91 workers now appeal these assessments on the grounds that they were independent contractors under contracts for services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	8	chefs, executive chefs and supervisors.
assessed 10Tation for arrears of contributions under the Canada Pension Plan and premiums under the Employment Insurance Act. 10Tation and all 91 workers now appeal these assessments on the grounds that they were independent contractors under contracts for services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	9	The Minister has decided that they
the Canada Pension Plan and premiums under the Employment Insurance Act. 10 Tation and all 91 workers now appeal these assessments on the grounds that they were independent contractors under contracts for services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. 19 Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	10	were employed under contracts of service and has
13 Employment Insurance Act. 14 10Tation and all 91 workers now 15 appeal these assessments on the grounds that they 16 were independent contractors under contracts for 17 services and, therefore, were not in insurable or 18 pensionable employment during the year under review. 19 Four workers testified in these 20 proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or 21 server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic 22 supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and 23 Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	11	assessed 10Tation for arrears of contributions under
10 appeal these assessments on the grounds that they 16 were independent contractors under contracts for 17 services and, therefore, were not in insurable or 18 pensionable employment during the year under review. 19 Four workers testified in these 20 proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or 21 server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic 22 supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and 23 Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	12	the Canada Pension Plan and premiums under the
appeal these assessments on the grounds that they were independent contractors under contracts for services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	13	Employment Insurance Act.
were independent contractors under contracts for services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	14	10Tation and all 91 workers now services and, therefore, were not in insurable or pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	15	appeal these assessments on the grounds that they pensionable employment during the year under review. Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	16	were independent contractors under contracts for Four workers testified in these proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	17	services and, therefore, were not in insurable or proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	18	pensionable employment during the year under review.
21 server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic 22 supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and 23 Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	19	Four workers testified in these
22 supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and 23 Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	20	proceedings: Lyndsy Deshima, who was a waiter or
23 Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that	21	server; Anouk Bikkers, a server and periodic
	22	supervisor; Richard Peters, a chef; and
24 their evidence was equally applicable to all 91	23	Fabio Ferrero, also a server. It was agreed that
	24	their evidence was equally applicable to all 91

workers as they were all subject to the same terms

- 1 and conditions in their working relationship with
- 2 10Tation.
- In order to resolve the question
- 4 before the Court as to the status of the 91 workers,
- 5 which question has been variously characterized in
- 6 the jurisprudence as fundamental, central and key,
- 7 the total relationship of the parties and the
- 8 combined force of the whole scheme of operations must
- 9 be considered. To this end, the evidence in this
- 10 matter is to be subjected to the four-in-one test
- 11 laid down as guidelines by Lord Wright in Montreal
- 12 (City) v. Montreal Locomotive Works Ltd.,
- 13 [1947] 1 D.L.R. 161, and adopted by Justice MacGuigan
- 14 in Wiebe Door Services Ltd. v. The Minister of
- 15 National Revenue (1986), 87 DTC 5025, in the Federal
- 16 Court of Appeal.
- The four guidelines are the payor's
- 18 control over the worker, whether the worker or the
- 19 payor owns the tools required to fulfil the worker's
- 20 function, and the worker's chance of profit and risk
- 21 of loss in his or her dealings with the payor.
- 22 Adverting first to the right to
- 23 control criterion, the evidence is that 10Tation only
- 24 retained experienced workers in order to maintain the
- 25 highest quality of service for its clients. This

- 1 means that the workers involved were all seasoned
- 2 professionals who knew well their various duties when
- 3 running catered events, whether they were large or
- 4 small, formal or informal, sit-down dinners or
- 5 buffet-style meals.
- 6 While events took place at locations
- 7 other than at 10Tation's offices and kitchens where
- 8 the food was cooked and prepared, the workers who
- 9 were chosen to orchestrate a given event were
- 10 selected from a list accumulated by 10Tation by
- 11 advertising and by word of mouth. The workers were
- 12 offered the opportunity of working which they could
- 13 either accept or decline. According to their level
- 14 of expertise and experience, they all had established
- 15 hourly rates at which they were prepared to offer
- 16 their services, and more than one witness in his or
- 17 her testimony asserted that they would not work for
- 18 less.
- 19 They were advised by e-mail by
- 20 10Tation when and where the event was to be held and
- 21 the starting time. They arrived early to set up the
- 22 necessary tables and tablecloths, light candles, open
- 23 wine bottles, prepare coffee and do all things
- 24 necessary to ensure the smooth running of the event.
- One of their number was designated

1	as supervisor for the occasion and was given an extra
2	$5 per hour for this service in addition to their
3	normal hourly rate for waiting on tables, tending bar
4	or whatever their usual duties were. While called
5	supervisors, I find that they did not perform such a
6	function. Rather, they simply allocated all
7	necessary tasks to the workers who then went about
8	performing them without direction or supervision.
9	They were told what to do, but not how to do it.
10	This is of significance because, as
11	counsel for the Minister recognized, in $Regina\ v$.
12	Walker (1858), 27 L.J.M.C. 207, Baron Bramwell says:
13	"A principal has the right to 14	direct what the agent has to
15	do; but a master has not only
16	that right, but also the right
17	to say how it is to be done."
18	This traditional test has been refined in recent
19	years, starting, I believe, with Wiebe Door Services
20	itself because it has been recognized that in modern
21	industry there are highly trained and expert
22	personnel whose abilities are far beyond the power of 23	their supervisors to be able to tell them how to do
24	their job. In modern law one could be held to be an
25	employee even though their supervisor is only

- 1 qualified to tell them what to do but not how to do
- 2 it.
- 3 The cases distinguish between
- 4 standard employment as opposed to highly qualified
- 5 professional employment. In the former case, in
- 6 order to be found to be in employment, it is
- 7 necessary that the supervisor have the right to
- 8 direct not only what is to be done but how it is to
- 9 be done. In the latter it suffices if the supervisor
- 10 can only direct what is to be done. In those cases,
- 11 if it is non-standard, highly qualified professional
- 12 services, that suffices to make the worker an
- 13 employee.
- 14 I find in the matter before me that
- 15 all 91 workers were in standard employment as opposed
- 16 to being highly skilled persons such as IT computer
- 17 experts whose expertise exceed the ability of a
- 18 supervisor to direct. In the matter before me the
- 19 supervisors, being one of their own number, were well
- 20 qualified to direct not only what had to be done but
- 21 how it was to be done. Therefore, in this case, in
- 22 order for these workers to be found to be employees,
- 23 I would have to find that their supervisor, if there
- 24 was one, had the right to direct not only what was to
- 25 be done but how it was to be done.

There is a case called Livreur Plus

2	Inc. v. The Minister of National Revenue,
3	[2004] F.C.J. No. 267, in the Federal Court of Appeal
4	where in paragraph 41 the Court says:
5	"Together with the right to
6	refuse or decline offers of
7	services, these are factors
8	which this Court has regarded
9	as indicating a contract of
LO	enterprise or for services
L1	rather than one of
L2	employment."
L3	That, of course, is relevant, and I have singled it
L 4	out for mention today from the jurisprudence because
L5	the evidence before me is quite clear that these
L6	workers, and worker after worker, testified that it
L7	was in their discretion whether they would accept or L8	decline any given project. Here we have the
L9	authority of the Federal Court of Appeal saying that
20	that is indicative more of an independent
21	contractor/principal agent relationship than
22	employer/employee.
23	I recognize that 10Tation certainly
24	had the right to fire or remove from their lists the 25	name of any worker who was recalcitrant, inebriated,

- 1 consistently late or caused inordinate breakage, but
- 2 in my view, while this was control, it was no more
- 3 than 10Tation could exercise over an independent
- 4 contractor.
- In the same vein, counsel for the
- 6 Minister has drawn the Court's attention to specific
- 7 elements of control that are in evidence in this
- 8 matter in that the workers were expected to arrive
- 9 possibly as much as two hours before a planned event
- 10 in order to set up. Also they were, I would say,
- 11 required to wear either black or white depending on
- 12 the event or occasion.
- While there is no question that that
- 14 is an element of control, I have considered whether
- 15 there has to be absolutely no control for the worker
- 16 to be constituted an independent contractor or
- 17 whether it is a matter of weighing the controls as
- 18 opposed to the lack of controls, and I have decided
- 19 that the law is more consistent with the latter.
- 20 While there are these two
- 21 requirements that could well constitute control, they
- 22 are so minimal that, when one looks to see whether
- 23 there was a relationship of subordination between
- 24 10Tation and the 91 workers, these two requirements
- 25 come nowhere close, in my view, to constituting a

- 1 relationship of subordination which the jurisprudence
- 2 says is an element of control. This particular
- 3 element comes, I believe, from Article 2099 of the
- 4 Quebec Civil Code, and I personally find it quite
- 5 useful in examining the control factor and in order
- 6 to understand who is an employee and who is an
- 7 independent contractor.
- In my view, the lack of direction
- 9 and control, the right to decline assignments and the
- 10 fact that all workers negotiated their hourly rates
- 11 indicate to me that they were not in a subordinate
- 12 relationship with 10Tation, but were independent
- 13 contractors during the year under review.
- 14 Turning now to the second Wiebe Door
- 15 criterion, ownership of tools, a word of explanation
- 16 as to why the ownership of tools is important might
- 17 be in order at this time.
- 18 The jurisprudence indicates that
- 19 this also goes to the element of control. If the
- 20 payor is supplying the tools, then the payor has the
- 21 right to direct how those tools are to be used.
- 22 Conversely, if the worker is supplying the tools, the
- 23 payor does not have that element of control.
- 24 In the matter before me so far as
- 25 tools are concerned, simply put, the 91 workers

- 1 provided their own tools. These included black and
- 2 white shirts and pants, shoes, lighters for candles,
- 3 pins for the tablecloths and corkscrews to open
- 4 bottles of wine. The bartenders brought their own
- 5 bar kit, like Mr. Ferrero, which included screens,
- 6 martini shakers and items like those.
- 7 I find that all other tools were
- 8 rented either by 10Tation or by the client whose
- 9 event it was, but were ultimately paid for by the
- 10 client. As a matter of fact, on those occasions when
- 11 they were rented by 10Tation, there was a mark-up on
- 12 the amount invoiced to the client for rentals. These
- 13 rentals could cover everything from the tables and
- 14 chairs to the candelabra, the serving trays, utensils
- 15 and tray tables.
- 16 Again, counsel for the Minister
- 17 adverted to stoves or ovens used by the chefs on
- 18 site. One example that was elucidated by the
- 19 evidence was the Distillery District in which
- 20 10Tation was provided with a room with four bare
- 21 walls in order to prepare the food. Therefore,
- 22 10Tation rented or provided the stoves.
- 23 In these circumstances where the
- 24 workers are supplying the tools that this category of
- 25 worker normally needs, whereas the payor was

1	supplying the large tools like stoves necessary for
2	the workers to perform their function, the case of
3	Precision Gutters offers guidance. This is Precision
4	Gutters Ltd. v. Minister of National Revenue,
5	[2002] F.C.J. No. 771, in which the workers were 6	people who installed rain gutters. There was some 7	quite large equipment required in order to form the 8	gutters from the raw aluminum, which was done
9	extensively on site. The issue, like the issue
10	before me, is: Is the payor supplying the tools that 11	would cause the workers to be employees rather than 12	independent contractors? In that case the workers
13	were supplying their own drills and bits, saws and
14	blades, pliers, small ladders, pry bars, measuring
15	tapes and hammers.
16	In paragraph 25 the Federal Court of 17	Appeal said:
18	"It has been held that if the
19	worker owns the tools of the 20	trade which it is reasonable
21	for him to own, this test
22	would point to the conclusion
23	that the individual is an
24	independent contractor even
25	though the alleged employer

1	provides special tools for the
2	particular business."
3	Therefore, I find Precision Gutters
4	on all fours, so far as tools are concerned, with the 5	matter before me. These 91 workers provided the 6	tools that they were expected to carry at their own
7	expense. Even though 10Tation provided some large
8	tools, nevertheless, according to Precision Gutters,
9	the tools factor indicates that they were independent
10	contractors.
11	This brings me to the chance of 12	profit and risk of loss. Like counsel for the 13	Minister, I find it convenient in this particular
14	fact situation to deal with the two together.
15	Again, Precision Gutters offers some 16	useful guidance at paragraph 27 on page 9 where the 17	Court says:
18	"In my view, the ability to
19	negotiate the terms of a
20	contract entails a chance of 21	profit and risk of loss in the 22	same way that allowing an
23	individual the right to accept
24	or decline to take a job
25	entails the chance of profit

- 1 and risk of loss."
- 2 In one paragraph the Federal Court of Appeal has
- 3 neatly solved two of the factual conundrums presented
- 4 by this case.
- 5 The workers before me had both the
- 6 ability to turn down any given assignment and the
- 7 ability to negotiate their hourly rates. I repeat,
- 8 some of them were so independent as to say that they
- 9 would not work for less than, in one case $20 per
- 10 hour, and in another I believe it was $18.
- I will candidly say that were it not
- 12 for the binding authority of the Federal Court of
- 13 Appeal in Precision Gutters, I would question whether
- 14 the 91 workers really had any chance of profit or
- 15 risk of loss in their working relationship with
- 16 10Tation. While they could earn more the more they
- 17 worked and served and bartended and although they
- 18 could do that for more than one caterer on the same
- 19 day, one gets into the question that counsel for the
- 20 Minister was good enough to do his best to try to
- 21 resolve for us, which is: Is that profit or is that
- 22 just an increase in earnings?
- 23 The first case that I know of that
- 24 went into that distinction is Hennick v. The Minister
- 25 of National Revenue. That is cited at [1995] F.C.J

- 1 No. 294 in the Federal Court of Appeal. That was the
- 2 case of a piano teacher at the Royal Conservatory.
- At trial the trial court held that she could earn 3
- more money if she worked longer hours and, therefore, 4
- 5 that was a chance of profit. That was reversed on
- appeal by the Federal Court of Appeal making the 6
- distinction that, while it may be more earnings, it 7
- was not more profit. The Conservatory is in a 8
- 9 position to earn profit or make losses, but not
- 10 someone who earns more money by virtue of working
- more hours or earns more money on a piece-work basis 11
- by producing more pieces. 12
- In my view, profit denotes business 13
- 14 income in excess of business expenses. A problem in
- this case, if one examines the income tax returns 15
- filed by the four workers who testified, is that they 16
- 17 had virtually no business expenses and, therefore,
- very little in terms of a chance of loss. 18
- 19 I would observe first that in all
- 20 cases none of them could possibly support themselves
- 21 on the amount of gross revenues that they were
- 22 earning from 10Tation in the year 2005. For
- 23 instance, the witness Peters had a total business
- 24 income of $3,669.68, but his expenses were $4,000 for
- 25 a car and $3,000 for travel. Neither one of them

- 1 compares to the sort of expenses that I am sure
- 2 10Tation had -- fixed costs for rent, the vehicle
- 3 that was used to transport the food, employees who
- 4 were on the payroll, considerable, I would say,
- 5 investment in the business.
- 6 Deshima's 2005 T4A shows $406.85
- 7 earned from 10Tation. On the other hand, her
- 8 expenses totalled $4,573 -- mainly her rent of
- 9 $3,120. There was advertising of $318, memberships
- 10 of $200, insurance of $210, office $62, and supplies
- 11 $100, and finally $400 for her phone. This is
- 12 clearly far different from the sort of business
- 13 expenses incurred by the payor 10Tation. As has been
- 14 recognized, her main source of income was as an
- 15 instructor of Shiatsu.
- 16 Similarly, Anouk Bikkers' main
- 17 source of income was as an illustrator. So far as
- 18 her business income was concerned, in 2005 it was
- 19 $3,467.69, compared with expenses totalling $6,574,
- 20 mainly involving her occupation as an illustrator:
- 21 $1,000 for supplies, $125 for advertising, $1,500 for
- 22 telephone. There are others, but there is really no
- 23 need for my purposes to go into that much detail.
- 24 Finally, Mr. Ferrero had business
- 25 income of $7,695, again not a sum with which he could

- 1 support himself. There are expenses of $2,688, none
- 2 of which exceeded $500 individually. They involve
- 3 such items as repairs, meals, an office, a car, a
- 4 telephone, professional development, gifts, tickets.
- 5 He wound up with a net business income of $2,934.86.
- 6 Clearly, all four workers were
- 7 anxious to be designated as independent contractors
- 8 so that they could deduct expenses that were
- 9 allowable under the Income Tax Act, even though they
- 10 were not really business expenses related to the
- 11 catering industry, with the exception of the black
- 12 and white clothing and their very minimal tools such
- 13 as pins, lighters and corkscrews. It is clear that
- 14 it is really all about their vehicles, their home
- 15 offices, their supplies, their telephones. If they
- 16 are able to legitimately deduct them from some source
- 17 of income, so be it.
- 18 I really do not know if it lies to
- 19 the Minister to reassess and disallow these workers'
- 20 expenditures as not being for the purpose of earning
- 21 income from a business no matter which way I rule. I
- 22 make no comment on that, but it is something that I
- 23 do wonder about.
- 24 Chance of profit and risk of loss,
- 25 as so much of this area of law is, is complicated.

1 There are two other considerations that, in fairness,

- 2 I would like to bring to your attention.
- I have found on the authority of
- 4 Precision Gutters that there was a chance of profit
- 5 and a risk of loss for all 91 workers. Even had I
- 6 found to the contrary, the outcome would be the same
- 7 because the evidence would still point to their being
- 8 independent contractors because the control factor
- 9 and the tools factor indicates that they were
- 10 independent contractors.
- 11 Even had I found that the profit and
- 12 loss factor indicated that they were employees, we
- 13 would be in a situation where of the four Wiebe Door
- 14 factors two are indicative of their being employees,
- 15 which is control and tools, and two are indicative of
- 16 their being independent contractors, which would be
- 17 lack of chance of profit and lack of risk of loss.
- 18 In those circumstances, where Wiebe Door yields
- 19 inconclusive results, we must invoke the Court of
- 20 Appeal's directions in Royal Winnipeg Ballet where
- 21 intent of the parties becomes of greater
- 22 significance.
- 23 Royal Winnipeg Ballet v. The
- 24 Minister of National Revenue is cited as 2006 FCA 87.
- 25 I will simply repeat what counsel for the Minister

1	has already read into the record. Justice Desjardins
2	in Royal Winnipeg Ballet at paragraph 81 gives me the
3	following guidance where the intention of parties
4	assumes greater significance because of the equivocal
5	outcome after applying the Wiebe Door guidelines:
6	" what the Tax Court judge
7	should have done was to take
8	note of the uncontradicted
9	evidence of the parties'
10	common understanding that the
11	dancers"
12	In that case, and workers in this case.
13	" should be independent
14	contractors and then consider,
15	based on the Wiebe Door
16	factors, whether that
17	intention was fulfilled."
18	I say that applying the Wiebe Door
19	factors and looking at the intentions of the parties,
20	by virtue of the fact that they all signed the same
21	agreement, there was a mutual understanding that
22	these parties were independent contractors. That
23	gets great weight. Even had I found no chance of 24	profit and no risk of loss, I would still have to 25	find them to be independent contractors.

- 1 That same conclusion arises from a
- 2 separate source. There was a case called City Water
- 3 International Inc. v. The Minister of National
- 4 Revenue, which is cited as 2006 FCA 350. City Water
- 5 was an interesting case because the workers in that
- 6 case had absolutely no chance of profit and
- 7 absolutely no risk of loss. While from a common
- 8 sense point of view one would have thought that the
- 9 very essence of a business was the chance of profit
- 10 and the risk of loss, the Federal Court of Appeal
- 11 nonetheless found those workers to be independent
- 12 contractors because there was a common intention to
- 13 that effect expressed by the parties.
- In short, all four Wiebe Door
- 15 factors are equivocal, two and two, and I have
- 16 already told you what the result has to be in those
- 17 circumstances.
- 18 I am also to examine the total
- 19 relationship of the parties. I should not really
- 20 phrase it that way. The four Wiebe Door guidelines
- 21 are only guidelines with a view to determining the
- 22 total relationship of the parties. That is my
- 23 ultimate goal. There are a few things to be said
- 24 about a total relationship.
- 25 Lyndsy Deshima said something that

- 1 was apposite: "I left restaurants for catering for
- 2 flexibility of hours. I am not guaranteed hours. I
- 3 have no job security."
- Those pronouncements were -- let me
- 5 say they got my attention because it was almost like
- 6 she had been reading Wolf v. Minister of National
- 7 Revenue. Wolf is cited at [2002] 4 F.C. 396 in the
- 8 Federal Court of Appeal. I won't quote verbatim, but
- 9 the Federal Court of Appeal at paragraph 12 says that
- 10 independent contractors choose the ability to deduct
- 11 allowable expenses and freedom of mobility over job
- 12 security and employee-type benefits.
- I do not think I need say any more
- 14 about the total relationship between the parties.
- 15 In these matters the burden is on
- 16 the appellant to demolish the assumptions set out in
- 17 the Minister's Reply to Notice of Appeal, which
- 18 assumptions are presumed true if not effectively
- 19 challenged. There are four cases in support of that
- 20 legal proposition: Elia v. The Minister of National
- 21 Revenue, [1998] F.C.J. No. 316 in the Federal Court
- 22 of Appeal, Livreur Plus Inc. v. The Minister of
- 23 National Revenue, [2004] F.C.J. No. 267 in the
- 24 Federal Court of Appeal, National Capital Outaouais
- 25 Ski Team v. The Minister of National Revenue,

- 1 [2008] F.C.J. No. 557 in the Federal Court of Appeal,
- 2 and finally Dupuis v. Minister of National Revenue,
- 3 [2003] F.C.J. No. 1410, again in the Federal Court of
- 4 Appeal.
- I personally took Anouk Bikkers'
- 6 through the contentious assumptions set out in the
- 7 Minister's Reply, and in her case it was 25(g), (i),
- 8 (m) and (n). I am sure the same assumptions turn up
- 9 in all of these appeals. She succeeded in
- 10 demolishing them. The remaining assumptions were not
- 11 sufficient to support the Minister's determinations.
- 12 I have worded my statement that way because there
- 13 was one assumption that was not demolished, and that
- 14 was 25(p), that the workers had to perform their
- 15 services personally.
- 16 Jencan Ltd. v. The Minister of
- 17 National Revenue, [1997] F.C.J. No. 876 in the
- 18 Federal Court of Appeal, requires the Court to
- 19 determine, if some of the Minister's assumptions are
- 20 demolished, if the remaining assumptions are
- 21 sufficient to support the Minister's determination.
- 22 In the matter before me, they clearly are not.
- 23 Having heard the witnesses' testify
- 24 under oath for the first time, I have found new facts
- 25 not previously recognized by the Minister, or

- 1 possibly the known facts were misunderstood or
- 2 wrongly assessed or misconstrued by the Minister
- 3 whose determinations I therefore find to be
- 4 objectively unreasonable. I find the four appellants
- 5 who have formally filed Notices of Appeal and indeed
- 6 all 91 workers involved were in business on their own
- 7 account as either servers, bartenders, chefs or
- 8 executive chefs.
- 9 As a result all 10 appeals before me
- 10 will be granted. The 91 workers were not in
- 11 insurable or employable employment during the period
- 12 under review. The decisions of the Minister will be
- 13 vacated.
- 14 Gentlemen, I am in your debt for
- 15 excellent presentations. You both were very helpful
- 16 and very well prepared and were of great assistance
- 17 to me.
- 18 I will close Court.
- 19 THE REGISTRAR: This sitting of the
- 20 Tax Court in Canada is now concluded.
- 21 ---Whereupon the sitting was concluded at 2:56 p.m.

I HEREBY CERTIFY THAT I have, to the best of my skill and ability, accurately recorded by Shorthand and transcribed therefrom, the foregoing proceeding.

Shirley Sereney, Shorthand Reporter

ASAP Reporting Services Inc.

CITATION: 2008 TCC 562

COURT FILE NOS.: 2007-4193(EI)

2007-4196(CPP)

STYLE OF CAUSE: 10Tation Event Catering Inc.

and The Minister of National

Revenue

PLACE OF HEARING: Toronto, Ontario

DATES OF HEARING: August 27 and 28, 2008

REASONS FOR JUDGMENT BY: The Honourable

N. Weisman, Deputy Judge

DATE OF ORAL JUDGMENT: August 28, 2008

APPEARANCES:

Counsel for the Appellants: Howard J. Alpert

Counsel for the Respondent: Justin Kutyan

COUNSEL OF RECORD:

For the Appellant:

Name: Howard J. Alpert Firm: Alpert Law Firm

Toronto, Ontario

For the Respondent: John H. Sims, Q.C.

Deputy Attorney General of Canada

Ottawa, Canada